How Much Do You Pay

TO GET CLOTHES CLEAN?

AN AWFUL PRICE—SOME WOMEN DO! HOURS OF EXHAUSTING, OVERHEATING WORK, USING THEIR STRENGTH TO RUB, RUB, RUB THE DIRT AWAY. DON'T THEY KNOW THEY CAN SAVE IT BY USING A BLUE BIRD WASHER? AND WHAT ABOUT THE CLOTHES! —THE CHILDREN'S ROMPERS, BLOUSES AND DRESSES THAT TAKE SO MUCH OF YOUR TIME AND EFFORT TO MAKE OR YOUR MONEY TO BUY, WHEN YOU GET THE DIRT GROUND IN, AS THEY QUICKLY WILL, DO YOU RUB THEM CLEAN AT THE EXPENSE OF THE FABRIC AND COLORS?

HARD RUBBING COSTS TOO MUCH IN BOTH HEALTH AND CLOTHES!

Investigate the Blue Bird. It will Pay.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL OPENED LAST MONDAY

"I never realized that there were so many students in Sequoia," said a young lady who had just registered at the new building of the Sequoia Union High School. For the last year the school had been divided between the old high school building and the large barn on the new school property. Now, however, with the total enrollment under one roof the appearance is surprising.

The new edifice was opened last Monday, and studies at Sequoia are now under full sail after a long vacation.

The office has the appearance of the head office of a large business concern and is connected with all other rooms of the building by telephone. A large clock in the office automatically rings the bells in all class rooms and rings the bell to call the students in at noon and in the morning.

Outside work is still progressing on the auditorium, which is now nearing completion. the concrete is now in place and the forms have been removed. and workmen are now at work on the roof of the new building. Except for laying some of the linoleum in the building, the remainder of the structure is now almost completed.

Work is now progressing on an ornamental arch which is to form the entrance to the grounds from the corner of Broadway and the highway. This arch when completed will form the main entrance to the grounds. The concrete has just been poured, and the archway will be finished in a few weeks.

The grounds surrounding the new buildings have been cleared of underbrush and weeds, and now have the appearance of a real park. Such surroundings for a new building of this kind will not be found once in a thousand times, and owing to efforts of the gardiners in charge of the grounds, Sequoia can boast of a setting that would do credit to a long established university.

NEWS OF WOODSIDE

I saw Dr. A. B. McKee driving his new latest model Buick thirty-five miles an hour this afternoon. All of which reminds me that these modern inventions get us all sooner or later. For I well remember when Dr. McKee had little use for automobiles. He drove his horse back and forth long after his neighbors had taken to the gasoline propelled machine. He said he could get much more pleasure from life traveling leisurely along each day seeing new beauties by the roadside in opening bud or coloring leaf. But his horse went lame and he yielded to the modern urge. But to prove himself a true democrat, he bought a Ford and drove it at a speed only slightly greater than that made by his horse. But the Ford wore out, as Fords will sometimes, and the good doctor bought a Dodge. With that he increased his speed somewhat and saw less of the beauties by the roadside. Now the Dodge has been laid aside and the nickel-plated Buick is kept just within the legal speed limit. "Tempora mutantur et nos mutamur in illis."

The warm rain of last week has started gardening operations in earnest and the smell of the new-turned soil makes a fragrance in the air. Some weeks ago Peter Bernasque defied the weather and put in a garden anyway. But even for Peter the seeds would not grow in the cold dry ground and now he is doing the work over again.

THE TEAPOT DOME

The Teapot dome is just now very prominent in the daily papers of the land and certain gentlemen are trying to tell the President of the United States how he should run the government. So far we have heard only one side of the case and we should reserve our judgment until we have heard the other side. Also we should not be too hasty in forming our opinions.

We hope that the Teapot affair will not be dragged into the coming campaign. The Democrats will probably try to make capital of it but we trust that all good Republicans will give the President a fair chance to investigate and act without in any way condemning him. Mr. Coolidge was not president when the lease was made. He had no way of interfering with it at the time it was consumated. He was in no way responsible for it. It should therefore have no part in his campaign for renomination.

It is to be regretted that men in high positions in our government should be found wanting when they have been given the positions of trust. Such men at times do acquire eminence and renown but they generally receive the punishment they deserve. We hope, however, that the present case may turn out right and that the good name of our country may not suffer, and the people who are in charge of its different departments may receive justification for the acts which they performed.

BEATING THE TRAINS

One evening this week a motorist was in such a hurry to beat a Southern Pacific train that he ran through the gates at Broadway and crossed the track just before a train reached the same point. He broke both gates but he beat the train. He was lucky. The next time he tries it there will probably be a long line of machines following after him and he wont be able to smell the flowers that have been stowed away in the machine above where he was placed. Any man who tries to beat a train at a crossing is a fool. Sometimes he can get by with it but when he doesn't there is a damage suit against the railroad company or somebody is going to be a sufferer all through life.

People now-a-days are taking too many chances. They think they can get by with many things. We frequently hear people say, "I'll try anything once." Some of us are going to come out O. K. the first time, but we will get caught if we take our chance too often. As an old German friend of ours used to remark, "We should look a liddle out."

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH THE BALL PARK?

A question to which our community should give careful attention just at present is the disposition of our ball graunds. The property belongs to the Sequoia Union High School. The school has no further use for the place. An offer has been received by the trustees but they have very wisely refused to dispose of their interests until the Town of Redwood City has had a chance to buy the place. A bond issue for the purpose will shortly be put forward for its acquisition.

The question therefore arises as to what is a wise course to follow concerning the property. Some people contend that it should be business property and that stores should be erected along both the Broadway and Highway frontages. Others say that it would be an ideal site for a lumber yard or for factory sites. Others feel that it should be reserved for playground purposes. We wish to comment upon this latter feature.

Redwood City is growing more rapidly now than it ever has. In every part of the community houses are being built. There are more than one hundred more children enrolled in the elmentary schools than there were a year ago today. Land is increasingq in value every month. It will soon be impossible to get a tract of land so centrally located which contains the area that is included in the ball grounds. Further, for advertising purposes Redwood City should have a playground.

We would not urge that the property be improved at present, but is should be kept in shape for baseball. Later a community house such as Palo Alto gives to its people could be located there. The corner of Broadway and Highway could be probably be leased for a sum sufficient to pay the interest on the purchase price. The land will never depreciate in value and should occasion require that the town dispose of the place in eight or ten years, we would probably more than double our money. All in all we feel that the town should acquire the land.

BEAUTIFYING THE HIGHWAY

Once again we rise to remark that the Highway through Redwood City should be planted with flowers from the north to the southerly boundaries of the town. There will be thousands of tourists passing through this place during the next year. They will not come through town. We should give them a good impression of our front yard. Tourists who pass us on the trains see only the undesirable sections of our town. We should make our Highway so beautiful that people will want to stop here. When they stop for a little while they will want to live here.

SOMETHING TO BE PROUD OF

The people of the Sequoia Union High School District have something to be proud of. The school opened this week in a building that would do credit to any institution in the world. There is not a feature in the new high school building that the people of this district need apologize for when they show their friends our new seat of learning. Every detail has been considered which would add to the convenience of beauty of the buildings and the result is far beyond the hopes of those who have not seen what has been done. All this has been done by the people of district, and yet the burden has not been appreciable on any one. Nor do we know of a single person who would if he could, have the school removed and accept in return the few cents of his taxes which have gone into its erection. The taxpayers of the Sequoia Union High School District now have one of the finest buildings ever devoted to educational purposes, in a seting that would compare favorably with the best of public parks, and all without realizing that they were being taxed for it. This is the result of combined effort, wisely directed, and those who were responsible for the use of the people's money, deserve all praise for the results they now have to show for its employment.

RESOLUTION PASSED FOR LATE LUDWIG P. BEHRENS

At a meeting of the trustees of the Sequoia Union High School district held last Saturday the following resolution was passed in memory of the late L. P. Behrens, who was killed in an automobile accident a few weeks ago while he was president of the board of trustees of the high school:

WHEREAS, in view of the loss we have sustained by the decease of our friend and associate, Ludwig Phillip Behrens, and of the still heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him; therefore, be it

"RESOLVED, That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting his removal from our midst, we mourn for one who was in every way, worthy of our respect and regard.

"RESOLVED, That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best, and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

"RESOLVED, That this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to the family of our departed friend by the secretary."

Cleaning Without Odor by the

F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded by our customers.

With the "F. Thomas Process" we not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline. Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline—the kind that you buy for your automobile—is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary distillate and leaves a sickening "gasoline" smell in your clothes

DR. ROY WOODHAMS TELLS OF MARVELOUS AFRICAN ADVENTURES

A Metropolis of South Africa; Strange Headress; Taste For Jewelry; A Short Ride in a Long Time

The city of Durban is prettily situated on a gradual hill which rises from two sides of the bay. It was our next stop after leaving Cape Town. The port, Port Natal, was named Vasco de Gama, who discovered it on Christmas day, and so called it Natal. As we entered the harbor, the red roofs of the town, among the tropical foliage of the hills appeared very beautiful.

The most unusual sight in Durban was the rickshaws, which greeted us at the dock gate. They are two wheeled, rubber tired, and carry two people or the equivalent weight. The shafts are about five feet long and connected by a cross-piece in front.

The most surprising thing about the rickshaws, however, is the native that draws it. Red is a favorite color with them. A shirt of red and white and what might be called pants, coming to six inches above his knees, form the least surprising part of his costum. The legs, feet and arms are bare, and shine with perspiration. Some paint on white socks, and others add black fancywork over the white. The headgear is the oddest. Some wear great bunches of feathers to indicate that he is as swift as a bird; others wear ox horns, standing out a foot on each side, showing that he is as strong as an ox. Some wear both horns and feathers; others a great bristle of porcupine quills. The headdress must really be seen to be appreciated; they are so different.

The rickshaw men leap and spring like a frisky horse to attract the attention of prospective customers. They run for miles at 6d (12c) per person a mile. This shows the wonderful physique of the Zulu race. However, all could not stand this life, and those who make their living thus, live only an average of four years, as they do not know how to care for themselves when overheated.

The Zulu women dress their hair in a long cylinder sticking out from the back of their head, often more than a foot long, and about four inches in diameter. It is constricted at its center, so that it is largest at the end and near the head.

A blanket covering them from the level of the armpit to above the knees forms the dress of the native women of Durban.

There are also large numbers of Hindus in Natal, who live and dress in their Oriental style. The women wear six or eight gold earrings, the size of brooches, which hang around the entire circumference of their ears. Added to this they wear a gold ornament on each side of their nose, which hangs over the mouth. Not satisfied with this, the Hindu lady of Durban wears five or six rings on her fingers, silver rings on her toes, gold bracelets on her wrists, at least four, as a rule, and finishes by a heavy silver anklet around each ankle. Even the women who sit at the side of the road all day with a little pile of pineapples or bananas to sell, have at least part of this extensive decoration.

The Indians and the natives carry all their loads on their heads. We were very anxious to get some pictures of this mode of transportation, but encountered considerable difficulty in procuring any, as they object to having their pictures taken. We managed, however, to get a snapshot of an aged Hindu carrying a load of chickens. He was carrying two sphearical coops about the size of a wash tub. Each coop was hung from a pole which he carried on his shoulder, like the Chinamen carry laundry in Chinatown. Into these coops the chickens were usually packed as into a subway.

We learned in Durban that it would be several weeks before we could secure a boat to continue our journey. Coast boats are few and far between. It was with pleasure that we accepted the invitation of a missionary and his wife whom we met in Durban, to visit their mission station at Mehlomnyana. We were pleased to get an opportunity to see real Africa, for Durban is a modern city, quite unlike what one imagines of Africa.

We took the South Africa railway which follows the coast south from Durban, for 70 miles. The train made this distance in the remarkable time of five hours and forty minutes. Some speed. Not like our trip from San Francisco to New York.

The trip along the coast was very interesting. The ocean on one side and thick dense tropical growth on the other. Small stations were frequent, and crowds of natives were there, as well as many Hindus.

Every five or six miles a beautiful river breaks the coast line. The bridges over these are used for both train and traffic, and it is not wide enough for both, so one must go at a time. We passed through miles and miles of sugar cane—here and there a field of corn.

We were much interested in seeing the mission stations. It is absolutely marvelous to see the converted native in contrast to the raw heathen. A bright, happy contented face, something to live for, a real hope in his life, and a joy he never knew.

We went on horseback to the outstations and saw the untouched native. As far as you may go from here to the Congo are native huts, as far as you can see anywhere the little group of huts called "kraals."

The native huts are made with thick grass roofs, no windows, low door, fire inside and plenty of smoke. The raw native wears only a brief loin cloth or skin or woven grass, some rap a skin or old blanket around them. But I must not go into such details about these Zulus here, for I will have to repeat when we reach our own tribe.

HIGHWAY SOUTH OF REDWOOD CITY TO BE WIDENED BY STATE

By Harvey M. Toy, Chairman, California Highway Commission

Motor Vehicle Contract No. 25, Division IV San Mateo County, dated August 28, 1923. Between the Commission and the Pacific States Construction Company. Provides for the widening of the State Highway from San Bruno to San Mateo; total length 3.37 miles; total width of widened highway 40 feet. Total cost, including work performed by state forces, $245,800.00, or a total cost per mile of $72,940.00.

The type of construction includes the widening of the old 24-foot State highway with concrete shoulders 8 and 10 feet wide on either side; shoulders being 8 inches thick with a 10 inch thickened edge and the placing of an asphaltic concrete surfacing over the old pavement between the newly constructed concrete shoulders 2 to 3 inches thick.

The original contract, M-25, under date of November 19, 1923, was extended to include that portion of the State highway between San Mateo and Beresford, IV S M 2 B, a total length of 1.76 miles. Total width of widened highway 36 feet. The old State highway being widened with concrete shoulders 8 feet wide on each side, 8 inches thick with 10 inch thickened edge, and placing of an asphalt concrete surfacing over the old pavement between the new constructed shoulders 2 to 3 inches thick. The total cost of the extension, including work performed by state forces, will be approximately $108,200.00 or a cost per mile of $6,147.00.

The State Highway Engineer has requested authority for widening the present State highway from Redwood City to the Santa Clara county line, near Palo Alto, a total length of 3.46 miles.

The contemplated improvement will consist of widening the present highway with macadam shoulders 8 feet wide and 7 inches thick on each side; then the newly constructed macadam shoulders and the old pavement will be surfaced with an asphalt concrete surfacing 30 feet wide and 2 1-2 inches thick; the balance of the widened shoulders to be surfaced with asphalt macadam tapering from the edge of the asphalt surfacing to the edge of the macadam shoulders making a total improved width of 36 feet. The total cost of this improvement is estimated at $120,150, or a cost of $34,724 per mile.

TO THE STARS FROM THE MILKY WAY

The following sparkling stanzas were composed by Earl Rush, local agent of the Star car, and were secured with great difficulty for publication by an intimate friend of the author. Rush believes that the old Roman saying, "Ad astra per aspera" is wrong. It should be, "de aspera in astera."

Twinkle, twinkle little Star,
What a wonder car you are;
Climbing all the hills on high,
While on the level you fairly fly.

Of all small cars you are a jewel,
Because your driver you never fool
You have the appearance, you have the class,
And many a large car you do surpass.

I bought you with my wages,
Earned by my sweating brow,
And now "by George" you're paid for,
For I sold the family cow.

The old cow was sure a treasure,
And of her we thot a lot.
The folks all cried when I sold her,
Till their tears filled up a 'pot.'

But she was a lot of trouble;
And for her to home we would stay,
To pull her four little udders,
And feed her bran and hay.

But you little Star are no worry;
You stand by the house through the night;
No cold nor no rain seems to hurt you,
You are sturdy and trusty and right.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

The attractive Garabaldi home at Atherton was sold last week to Mrs. Geraldine Howell, daughter of Mrs. Wales, wife of Major Wales. The new owner is to expend the sum of $10,000 in improving the property and will occupy the premises when the contemplated improvements are completed next May. The Garadaldies have taken the Stephenson home close by temporarily. They intend to spend the summer in Washington, where a sister of Mrs. Garabaldi resides.

The rainfall for the last storm was 1.50 inches making a total of 5 inches for the season as against 16 inches at this time last year. Unless there is considerably more rain here is sure to be a meager supply of water for the gardens next summer.

The Womans Exchange is doing a thriving business. Mrs. Kurtz's home-made cakes and pies are being sought after by housewives who are connoisseurs in the cooking art. Lemon cream pies and angel cakes wil lbe the feature of the sale today. Try those delicious salads and rolls today.

The death of Dr. William F. McNutt, the eminent physician who was run over by an automobile last Monday night and passed away shortly after at the Morton hospital in San Francisco, recalls a youthful romance of the doctor that had its inception here in the very early seventies. There lived at that time in a beautiful home near the confluence of the Los Trancos and San Francisquito creeks the late Judge Coon and his interesting family, consisting of a lovely wife, three sons and a pretty and attractive daughter. Miss Coon was a tall, slender, graceful, dashing handsome girl, then in her teens. McNutt was at that time a rising young physician with a splendid future before him in his chosen profession in San Francisco. He met the beautiful maiden at the Coon home one Sunday in 1871. He was smitten, he was fascinated by the fair young woman. The youthful doctor paid court to the girl, coming very often from his home in the city to the dwelling on the hill overlooking the placid waters of the Los Trancos. A trip in those days from the city was no small task. Only a few trains of the Southern Pacific composed the schedule. The roads were no more than trails so that when the doctor arrived at Menlo Park he was compelled to take a buggy and drive over the rough highway for a distance of six miles to the Coon domicile. These trips were usually made in the evening, the young doctor making his weary way over the dark trails. Love making under those circumstances was more difficult than today when one may leave San Francisco in a high-power machine, dashing down wide and beautiful boulevards to the former Coon home in an hour and a half. Times have changed but perhaps courting is still going on in the same old way. The dotor woed and won the winsome maiden. The wedding at the Coon home in 1872 was a big affair. The wedding breakfast was al a fresco on the green lawns and under the madrones. Society leaders of San Francisco were there in numbers. The young couple was showered with congratulations. It was a happy marriage, several children being born to the couple. The doctor became one of the most eminent and wealthy physicians of San Francisco. Mrs. McNutt died some years ago. Judge Coon was a noted man in his day. He was the police judge of San Francisco, for many years making a record for honesty and efficiency. After his retirement from the bench he purchased a large tract of land in Santa Clara county bordering on the San Francisquito creek. There he erected an attractive dwelling and lived happily with his family until Senator Stanford arrived in that section in 1876 and purchased the Coon tract together with all the adjoining lands now the property of the Stanford University. The old home was burned many years ago and near the site now stands the Isolation hospital of the university. At this point was erected a bridge over the San Francisquito creek and it is known as the Coon bridge. No doubt in those days of long ago the doctor and the pretty maiden held hands and spooned on that bridge by moon light as do now the charming and winsome coeds and brave young men of Stanford. The judge in his younger years was a minister of the gospel and often filled the pulpit in the Presbyterian church here. His sermons were full of wisdom and spiritual encouragement. The judge died many years ago after reaching a ripe old age. His sons have become prominent in the commercial world. The judge belonged to the old school of honesty, was just, truthful and fair.

The appointment of F. H. Kerrigan by President Coolidge as judge of the United States Court in San Francisco, a position sought after by the ablest lawyers of the state, recalls the early childhood of Judge Kerrigan in Menlo Park. With his parents he came from Contra Costa county as a lad of three years to live in a cottage across the San Francisquito creek from the estate of J. Henry Meyer in 1872. As a child he romped along the banks of the stream, his first playmate being the writer. The sweetest and happiest years of his life were spent in that locality, chasing butterflies and gathering wildflowers. In later years when the judge had won honors and prominence in the state he enjoyed telling friends of the golden hours spent in childhood along the banks of the Little St. Francis, where he received his first inspirations of nature in its most beautiful manifestations.

His memory often reverts to these scenes and incidents of his early life. There was a little episode that occurred when he was about five years old which he has forgotten, but that came very near shortening his career. The future jurist had three playmates, the latter owning a large Newfoundland dog, and where ever the boys were, there also was the faithful animal watching and caring for his charge. One winter afternoon following a heavy rain the quartet was playing on the brink of the creek with the loyal dog close by. The wet bank caved in and down went young Kerrigan into the swollen stream. The dog plunged in catching the boy by the coat collar, bringing him safely to the shore so that his frightened companions could rescue him from his perilous position. The writer has never forgotten this exciting incident for he witnessed it. Perhaps time has erased it from the tablets of the judge's memory, but the other members of that quartet still speak of that event as one of the most exciting moments of their lives.

The faithful canine that did such a noble deed lived to a ripe old age and his bones now mingle with the soil a short distance from the scene of the rescue of the future federal judge. When Senator Stanford bought the Hoag ranch, on which was located their cottage, the Kerrigans moved to Mayfield and later to San Francisco. Judge Kerrigan is a selfmade man in every sense. Unaided and alone he won his way to prominence by hard work and a determination to win success. Early in life he was left to paddle his own canoe and how well he succeeded may be seen by the way he has climbed to the highest court in the state, and now is made a United States Judge. The judge secured the appointment through the recommendation of Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, whose country home is only a stone's throw from the childhood scenes of the new judge.

George Beck of Palo Alto contemplates moving to Menlo Park very soon. Mr. Beck and his brother, Lee, have bought the Ole Johnson meat market at Woodside. They are doing a thriving business.

The local Native Daughters contemplate holding a Valentine party and banquet in the lodge hall on February 14.

The Woman's Exchange, Mrs. Kurtz proprietor, today and all next week will have a special sale of bread, rolls, home-made cakes and pies. Here is the place to get choice pastry.

Mrs. Gertrude Carroll has sold her property and her confectionery store on the highway to Mr. Neilson of San Mateo who is going to enlarge the store for the sale of fruit and groceries. Mrs. Carroll has bought another place on Santa Cruz avenue.

Mrs. Campania owner of the laundry building on the highway, has leased the property to one of the owners of the Oak Grove Villa, who is to transform the place into an up-to-date hotel. The caravansary will be opened for the spring trade.

The annual parish meeting of Trinity Episcopal church was held at the parish house on Saturday, January 26, at 8 o'clock. The election of vestrymen resulted in the choice of the following: Augustus Taylor, W. B. Ware, Delancy Lewis, S. H. Judson. The following delegates to the annual convention were chosen: W. B. Ware, M. Polson, J. M. Strong, Harry Weeden. Delegates to the House of Churchwomen are Mrs. Delancy Lewis, Mrs. Adele Brainerd, Mrs. W. B. Ware, Mrs. M. Polson and Mrs. George Angus. The rector announced the appointment to the parish council of Harry Weeden, M. Polson, George Angus, Miss Bertha Kuck and Mrs. E. B. Hindes. After the business meeting the rest of the evening was spent in card games and sociability until a late hour. Refreshments were served.

The Rev. Ralph B. Smith, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, with M. Polsc4 and Harry Weeden, attended the convention at San Francisco on Tuesday. Mrs. Polson and Mrs. J. E. Strong went as delegates to the House of Churchwomen. They report a most interesting and well attended session.
